

I do not believe it is a good thing to relax (i.e. water down) current rules that require incumbent local exchange carriers (ILECs) to share their network facilities with other local companies/competitors. I believe my ISP (lava net) should continue to be able to purchase services from the ILEC, Verizon so they can provide me with Internet services. If deregulation of monopolies must be considered, the State should be given the power to evaluate the effects on its own market and make its decision accordingly to ensure competition.
